Ateneo de Manila University

The Ateneo de Manila University was established in 1859.As a Jesuit University, it seeks the goals of Jesuit liberal education through the harmonious development of moral and intellectual virtues.   As is common in the Philippines, the primary medium of instruction is English, with a few classes taught in Filipino.

At the higher education level, Ateneo offers undergraduate and graduate programs through the Loyola Schools and the Professional Schools.   The Loyola Schools is comprised of the School of Humanities, School of Management, School of Science and Engineering and School of Social Sciences.   The Professional Schools, on the other hand, provides professional education through the School of Law, Graduate School of Business, School of Medicine and School of Government.

As is common in the Philippines, the primary medium of instruction is English, with a few classes taught in Filipino.
