

The University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH)

The top research based university in the South of Vietnam

Established in October 1976 the University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH) is one of the largest public universities in economics and management in Vietnam. UEH is officially recognized as one among fourteen key universities in Vietnam.

As a leading university in training and research activities, UEH has made a significant contribution to understanding of the global economic integration of the Vietnamese economy. Our many international co-operation programs are a result of close as well as diverse relationships with other universities partners around the world. These joint programs provide high quality courses in English not only to local students, but also to international students from Japan, Korea, the Netherlands, France, the European Union, Singapore, and the USA... In order to provide updated and qualified education to learners, UEH strongly promotes close connections with both global education networks and local organizations.

There are many joint programs offering Degrees of Bachelor, Master and Doctor of Business Administration that are the results of a diversified cooperation between the UEH and international universities from different countries.
